

Australia's peak events for women in leadership

The 2025 Australian Women's Leadership Symposiums bring together leaders at all levels, from across all sectors and industries, for a powerful day of learning, connection, and inspiration.

For over ten years, the Australian Women's Leadership Symposiums have brought together people who are inspired to strive for better outcomes for themselves, their teams, and their organisations.

By creating a dedicated space for networking, discussion, and professional development, these events have motivated thousands of women to pursue personal and career ambitions.

Covering critical topics like gender equity, inclusion and belonging, leadership, career advancement, and life fulfillment, the Symposiums provide a unique platform for raw, honest, and holistic conversations around what it means to lead in businesses and communities today.

The Symposiums are designed to provide a psychologically safe space centred on the voices and experiences of women and gender-diverse people. We welcome people of any gender expression or identity, cultural background, beliefs, or choices.
