About the program

Today's schools are dynamic, challenging, volatile and often frustrating workplaces, and yet they remain one of the world's most rewarding. Leading these complex, multifaceted organisations requires a strong sense of moral purpose, a fierce will to succeed and an unwavering desire to make a difference in the lives of students.

Delivered online over six months, the Women in Schools Advanced Leadership Program brings together the latest research, leadership best practice and peer learning experiences to provide the skills, strategies and networks that will help school leaders thrive.

Participant profile

This program is suitable for women who are currently in, or aspiring to, senior leadership positions in primary or secondary schools.

Program Outcomes

A transformational experience to help women leaders thrive

Develop the capabilities to lead successfully in the contemporary school environment

Work with peers to test assumptions, explore strategies and refine approaches to common issues

Embrace a transformational 'leader as learner' mindset

Apply learnings from case studies and adaptive leadership principles to broader contexts

Leverage and extend existing leadership capabilities and engage in continuous self-development

Facilitate growth in others

Program experience

The program is delivered part-time over six months to ensure participants have time to fully integrate their learning into their everyday practice. The program experience combines expert tuition, peer knowledge sharing, practical workplace application, and guided personal thought and reflection.

[The] program has had a profound impact on my career, and has been without a doubt the best professional course I have ever done. I did the ALP whilst I was a deputy principal, and the skills and confidence that I gained throughout the program gave me the self-belief to apply for and get the position of principal. Don't hesitate to do this program! It is interesting and invigorating but most importantly extremely helpful.
